PSD and .PDF files from a design. Option #2: DeskPack 3 DeskPack 3 offers a wide range of features to fit any prepress environment. It also includes a redesigned architecture that makes the DeskPack user interface more intuitive and accessible. DeskPack 3 also includes the option of creating SVG files from .PDF documents using the vectorize feature. Option #3: DeskPack Pro DeskPack Pro is the premium version of DeskPack and offers features not found in DeskPack 3, including: access to (PDF and SVG) file formats and features that enable you to create (PDF and SVG) documents for any operating system. Additional features In addition to the six options described above, DeskPack and DeskPack Pro offer an assortment of features, such as the ability to create file profiles and output templates, automatically open files by types (such as CAD files, image files, etc.), open URLs, assign tags to files, set file associations, convert a ZIP file into a single file and more. How to use Import files Using the presets or file types options described above, you can import one or more files in DeskPack. Files that have been imported are added to the projects' files list. The icon of each file is displayed to the left of each project's files list. The file type of each imported file is displayed at the bottom of the project list. Convert files As discussed in the additional features section, you can use the convert files option to convert any file type to another type. The new output file is added to the projects files list and the new file type is displayed. You can use this option to convert from any file type to the standard.PDF, or other file type. Assign tags Tags are assigned to projects in DeskPack to facilitate file and folder identification. You can assign up to ten tags to a project. Files are assigned to tags automatically and the corresponding tag is displayed to the left of each file in the project list. Adding web links You can also create web links for each project in your work. Web links point to a specified URL and enable you to access the specified resource from any desktop or mobile device. Settings In addition to the options described above, DeskPack offers a number of customizable features to further enhance the user experience. In the Settings section, you can change the text 82157476af
